Library

Preschool story time

All children 2 through 6 are invited to attend a free story time at the Library Sept. 12 and 19. After hearing a few stories, the children will complete a craft related to the story. The fun starts at 10 a.m. Class size is limited and registration is required. Call 652-4484 to reserve a space.

Internet basics

This free class on Sept. 16 and 30 at 10 a.m. is for new internet users. Participants will learn about browsers, search engines and security issues. This is a hands-on class where students practice on computers and ask questions. The class is limited to 12 people. Call 652-4484 to sign up.

Free fire safety program

Base Fire Department representatives will team up with the Library staff to teach children 3 through 12 fire safety. Sparky the Fire Dog and Smokey Bear will be on hand to visit. The program will take place Sept. 26, 10 a.m. Registration for this program begins Sept. 1. Call 652-4484; space is limited.

Football Frenzy kicks off in September

By Ms. Stephanie Pittman
99th Services Squadron

Air Combat Command has something fantastic for football fans this year. The Football Frenzy program combines the love of the game with weekly drawings and grand prize winners.

To participate, football fans need to show up at the Officers' Club, Enlisted Club or Time Out Sports Bar & Grill and watch Monday night football.

Drawings will be conducted each week during the game for different prizes. To enter, customers need to fill out an entry blank located at each of the facilities. All participants need to be Officers' Club or Enlisted Club members to win.

Grand-prize drawings include a trip to see the 49ers vs. the Chargers game in San Francisco, a trip to the Super Bowl in Tampa, Fla.

or to the Pro Bowl in Honolulu. All trips include airfare, hotel accommodations and car rental.

Club members could also win a $150 club card credit.

If you can't get out to Football Frenzy on Monday nights, you can still take in the games Saturday and Sunday at the Time Out Sports Bar & Grill.

Satellite football for all ages is being offered at the Time Out.

Vote for your favorite team Monday through Friday, and if you win, your game will be shown on the big-screen television. Other games will be shown on the smaller televisions.

ACC and Team Nellis are giving the fans what they want--football, football and more football. Sato Travel, Miller Brewing Co. and American Airlines sponsor the ACC Football Frenzy program.

Nellis preteens win ACC Lock-In

By Ms. Stephanie Pittman
99th Services Squadron

Imagine 57 children, 9 through 12, staying up all night. The first annual Air Combat Command Preteen Lock-In kept everyone busy at the Nellis Boys and Girls Club from 6:30 p.m. until 7 a.m. the next morning.

Youth at different Air Combat Command bases competed with each other in fun activities throughout the night. Nellis won the overall competition with 78 points. Barksdale Air Force Base, La. and Offutt Air Force Base, Neb. tied for second place.

Telephones were available for the youth to call other bases and issue challenges, which included person, place or thing question-and-answer, icebreaker, basketball spot shot and timed free throw competitions. Points were earned in each activity, and total scores from each base were forwarded to ACC.

The Nellis preteens will celebrate with a pizza party, courtesy of ACC.

Preteens Josh Green and Sean Allamani have fun with their prizes during the Lock-In, while Louis Hardy, Dominique Walker, and Scot Ponder, Jr. take a break after speaking on the phone all night.

Everybody wants to "Be A Hero"

By Mrs. Stephanie Pittman
99th Services Squadron

Want to know how to be a hero? Spend a few minutes with your children.

The Air Combat Command's "Be a Hero" contest gives parents and children a chance to spend time together and win great prizes. This year the prizes include eight weekly drawings for vacation getaways and a drawing for a $200 AT&T voucher.

ACC has created two new contests this year. One is a youth poster contest for children ages 3 to 16. Contestants are asked to make a poster of their hero, dream vacation or favorite thing to do. Submit posters to the Nellis Boys & Girls Club between Sept. 11 and 23 for judging. The winner gets his or her poster published on the ACC Services web site, www.servicity.com and other great prizes.

Children can also tell about their hero in a weekly essay contest just by visiting the web site and following the directions. Winners of this contest could win $100 in on-line shopping.

To join in the fun, just ask for a "Be A Hero" card beginning Sep. 1 at all the services facilities. Spend time with your child using designated Services' programs and get a stamp for each activity you participate in. Five stamps are needed to enter the drawings.

As a kick-off for the "Be A Hero" program, a "Services Family Spectacular" will be held at the Olympic pool on Sept. 16. Attendees can earn "Hero" stamps by involving their families in fun events. Families who compete in the "Build-A-Boat" contest will receive a completed entry card.

Call the Community Center at 652-5014 to sign up for the boat contest or 652-5655 for more details on "Be A Hero."

AT&T and Servicity sponsor the "Be a Hero" program.
